DOWD CONFIRMED FOR POSTMASTER

Will Enter Upon His New Duties March
1st, Succeeding Joseph P. Conner,
the Present Incumbent

The senate has confirmed the nomination of John H. Dowd for postmaster to succeed the present incumbent Joseph P. Conner, who has held the office for the past eight years. Mr. Dowd it is understood will assume his new duties on March 1st, Postmaster Conner's term expiring on February 28th.

Mr. Dowd was born in Bangor, Me., but came to this city in 1883, being employed as a teller at the marble and granite works of the late John S. Treat. He remained in this employ of Mr. Treat until March, 1887 when he engaged in business for himself at his present location on Market street, and by his square and upright dealing soon built up a substantial business, which he has continued to the present time. In politics Mr. Dowd has always been a staunch Democrat and served on the Democratic state committee for upwards of fifteen years. He was a member of the New Hampshire legislature in 1889-90. He served on the board of assessors of taxes for several years and was also a member of the water board for four years. Several years ago he was a candidate for state senator in the 21st district, and made a good run considering the fact he was pitted against a very formidable candidate in the person of Chief of Police Thomas Entwistle.

He married Miss Eleanor Hutchins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hutchins of this city, and their family consists of three sons, Oliver, John J., and Lawrence and a daughter, Miss Anna Dowd. The appointment and confirmation of Mr. Dowd as postmaster will be pleasing news to the rank and file of the Democratic party, with whom he has always labored with when his party was not in the ascendancy.

Postmaster Conner who has ably filled the position for the past eight years, will retire with the very best wishes of our citizens. During his administration he has brought the office up to a high standard and the greatly increased business has been handled in a very able and satisfactory manner. He has enjoyed the esteem of his clerks and employees all of whom have worked hard to handle expeditiously the large amount of business, especially during the holiday rush, which in 1915 was the greatest in the history of the office.

GERMAN WAR DEPOT ON THE CANADIAN BORDER

Department of Justice Agents Have Located Arms and Munitions Stored
For Invasion of That Country

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, Feb. 13.—Agents of the department of justice this afternoon telegraphed officials here that they have located several secret stores of arms and ammunition along the Canadian border. They gave as their belief that the stores have been established for a possible invasion of Canada. The reported stores that not attempt has been made recently to move the supplies. Scores of government agents are now watching every supply base.

The government agents have for the past month been suspicious that there has been a war base maintained by the Germans of this country, somewhere along the Canadian border with the idea that if the occasion should arise they could invade that country. It was only recently that the Canadian government gave the state department information that the Germans have a secret base, and this information was turned over to the department of justice with the above result.

The mysterious purchase of arms on the part of some of the German plotters, and the sudden disappearance of these arms have for a long time kept the department on the watch for a possible move by the German reservists against Canada. It is but recently that Canada has moved extra troops to the Canadian border and at the present time it is said that there is a big garrison at Niagara.

Athens, Feb. 14.—Bulgarian troops have advanced on Elbasan and are nearing Avionia, the Albanian seaport, occupied by Italian troops. Word reached here today that the Bulgarians on Saturday evening occupied the town of Ploer, thirty-one miles north of Avionia, but halted there to await the arrival of artillery before making the attack.

ANARCHIST PLOTTED THE POISONING

Jean Cronis Wanted in Chicago is an International
Anarchist

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Jean Cronis wanted on the suspicion that he attempted to poison 296 guests at the Archbishop of Mundella banquet last Thursday night, has been identified as a member of an international band of anarchists and murderers, with headquarters in Patterson, N. J., according to letters which the police seized after his flight. The letter disclosed that he was a friend and compatriot of Gaetano Bresci, who killed King Humbert of Italy, July 2, 1910. Until recently he roomed with Bresci's widow in Chicago. Her house was a meeting place for anarchists all over the country.

FRENCH WIN AND LOSE TRENCHES

Violent Fighting Going on in Southern France

(Special to The Herald)

Paris, Feb. 14.—The capture of German trenches south of Sene, is announced by the French war office in an official communication today. One hundred positions were taken at Sene in Upper Alsace and the Germans gained a foothold in the French trenches over a front of 300 yards, but were driven out at nearly all points by French counter attacks. This place is at the extreme southern end of the battle front near the Swiss border.

AUTOS IN COLLISION

Late Saturday afternoon there was a head-on collision of two automobiles at the junction of Vaughan and Hanover street. The two autos came together with considerable force but strange to say but slight damage was done. One of the autos which was coming from the Boston and Maine railroad station contained four persons.

GREENLAND TOWN CLERK A SUICIDE

Frank D. Wentworth Takes His Life in a Sanatorium in Derry

Frank D. Wentworth, one of the best known citizens of Greenland, took his own life early this morning at the Derry Sanatorium in Derry, N. H., where he has been under treatment.

Mr. Wentworth, who has been in failing health for some months, was him physically, he could not seem to get the idea out of his mind and under the strain his mind gradually gave way.

Saturday he was apparently feeling better and he sent word to his wife to send him his shaving kit. This was done and his condition was such that the physician in charge allowed him to shave himself, but when the attendant turned his back, he cut his throat and died in a few minutes.

He was about fifty years of age and a man who had the respect and good wishes of everybody who knew him. He was a prosperous farmer and had served as town clerk for a great many years. He had also represented his town in the legislature. He was a man of a quiet and kindly disposition, a good citizen and a kind friend.

He leaves a wife and three children, all of whom reside in Greenland.

Good Basketball Games In City League Result In Victories For Southerly and Y. M. C. A. Fives

By playing hard every minute of the game, the Y. M. C. A. five defeated the P. A. C. team in their basketball game at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Saturday evening, winning by a score of 30 to 24, the game leaving the Y. M. C. A. team still at the head of the City League. After the first period the younger boys kept from eight to ten points in the lead, mainly because of the ability of Craig to cage baskets from any position on the floor. The team work of both teams was excellent but at the critical moments the Y. M. C. A. guards covered well, preventing many goals that looked like certain points.

Craig, Thompson and Hand featured for the Y. M. C. A., and Bruce, Briggs, Brackett and Harrington excelled for the P. A. C.

Southerly Defeated City Five

The U. S. S. Southerly defeated the City Five by a score of 19 to 10, the game going an extra period. To the end of the third period the City Five outplayed their opponents but owing to the many unnecessary fouls, lost the game. In the three periods the City Five scored five goals from the floor for a total of ten points, the Southerly men caging but two, but their six points won from fouls tied the score. In the last period Casper caged four baskets from the floor and a goal from a foul in the five minutes of play, making a total of 9 points in this period. Connors and Chase played the better games for the City Five, with Burnett and Casper excelling for the Southerly.

ENDORSE POTOMAC MEMORIAL BRIDGE

Washington, Feb. 12.—The proposed erection of a National Memorial Bridge across the Potomac River, which is designed to more closely connect the North and South and erase the imaginary line drawn during the Civil war, is receiving almost unanimous support from various states. Recently, B. H. Warner, commander-in-chief of the Patriotic Legion of America, addressed all the Governors in the country for an expression on the project. "Not one of those heard from him frowned on the project."

Among those who have expressed themselves favorably on the project are Governor Harrington of Maryland, Governor McCall of Massachusetts, Governor Whitman of New York, Governor Craig of North Carolina, Governor Willis of Ohio, Governor McCall of Rhode Island, Governor Carlson of Colorado, Governor Phillip of

HENDRICKSON, CHAMPION FANCY SKI JUMPER, ASTONISHES ST. PAUL SPORTSMEN

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 14.—Winter's sportsmen have been having their fun here for the past couple of weeks. All kinds of winter pastimes—skating, sleighing and caravans—have been in order. Probably the most interesting sport on the calendar was the fancy ski jumping contests. In this event the honors were captured by Alex Hendrickson. The stunts of the latter thrilled the spectators from start to finish. He did all kinds of tricks on the skis. In one jump he leaped the loop around the telegraph wires and in a straight jump went the remarkable distance of 110 feet. Upper illustration shows Hendrickson before he started his fancy skiing.

LUMBERMEN REACH AGREEMENT WITH BOSTON & MAINE

Manchester, Feb. 14.—The car stake controversy between New Hampshire lumbermen and the Boston & Maine railroad was the subject today of a long conference in this city between representatives of the New Hampshire Lumbermen's Association and G. Heaton, assistant freight traffic manager of the Boston & Maine.

The meeting was presided over by Irving H. Chase of Plymouth, president of the lumbermen's organization. The question of delivering car stakes at the loading tracks and accepting them back from the consignees at the unloading tracks was discussed, with the object of working out an arrangement satisfactory to all concerned.

It was tentatively agreed that it would be a fair proposition for the railroad to own and furnish the stakes to shippers as ordered, the same to be charged to the shipper until such time as they were again shipped out on loads. Then the shipper is to be given credit for the stakes so shipped, his responsibility for them ceases, and the railroad is to look to the consignee for the return or value of the car stakes. A committee was appointed to carry out the plan with the railroad, with the following membership: Irving H. Chase of Plymouth, John T. Dodge of Laconia, J. G. Fellows of Sanook, S. F. Langdell of Manchester and Charles B. Rogers of Pembroke.

ROBERTSON, CHIEF OF STAFF, NOW ISSUES ORDERS TO BRITISH ARMY

Lieutenant-General Sir William Robertson

(Commenting on the order issued a few days ago that the British chief of staff "shall be responsible for issuing the orders of the government regarding military operations," the London Daily Mail says: "Since the creation of the ministry of war has taken place." The order means that in future army orders will go out in the name of Sir William Robertson, the chief of staff, instead of that of Lord Kitchener, secretary of war, as heretofore. It was reported that Kitchener would go to take command in Egypt. General Robertson is a soldier of long experience, who has seen service in India and South Africa as well as in the present war. He became chief of the imperial general staff last March.)

MONSTER MEETING FOR SERBIAN RELIEF

Portsmouth Subscribes $229.78 In Aid of Sufferers of War Ridden Country.—Miss Losanitch Presented Wonderful Address at Colonial Theatre

Despite the severe storm sweeping the city on Sunday afternoon, the Colonial Theatre was filled with a gathering of people who attended to hear the address delivered by Miss Helen Losanitch in her appeal for funds for the relief of the stricken sufferers of Serbia. The sum of $187.17 was collected at the meeting and speaks well of the generosity of the people of this city and the eloquence of Miss Losanitch.

She is the daughter of a member of the Serbian cabinet, her father also being a professor of the Belgrade University. The leading college of that country, and she tells what she has seen personally. She remained in Serbia until after the last invasion of the Teutonic allies was well under way and then made her way to the coast and came to this country, where she has been speaking for the benefit of the Serbian relief fund.

From all of the descriptions that have come out from Serbia, by the different special correspondents, some of whom made the memorial retreat with the Serbian army, and others who remained or came in with the Germans, the country is in far worse condition than that of Belgium. Thousands of people have been left destitute and the last reports were that they were dying by the hundreds from actual starvation. They lack food, clothing and medicine and every cent donated means possibly the saving of a human life.

Miss Losanitch made a strong appeal for funds for her people and told of their sufferings which she has seen, her work in the hospitals, working under the falling shells of her people's enemies, and her story was told in an interesting, simple, straightforward manner. She is a young lady of attractive personality, culture and refinement and her efforts have been self-sacrificing and laborious.

Her lecture was followed by a well-illustrated talk on Serbia, the views shown on the screen being the work of her own camera in most instances. More than 100 pictures were shown, presenting views of public buildings, including hospitals, and many private estates torn apart and destroyed by the shells of the enemy in and about Belgrade. Pictures of King Peter and other members of the Royal family were shown and in all Miss Losanitch vividly described the conditions of Serbia and the Serbians.

Miss Losanitch was introduced by Mayor Ladd and at the close he made an appeal to those attending for funds to assist the little lady in her work of supplying the suffering Serbians with some of the bare necessities of life of which they are at present destitute.

Miss Losanitch said in part: "You have the opportunity of seeing a real Serbian, which I am very proud to be indeed. Before I came over I was a nurse in one of the hospitals in Serbia. I was also engaged in nursing during the previous war. Speaking of the hospital in which she labored among the sick and wounded Miss Losanitch said, "It was a very hard thing indeed for us to supply that hospital. We were short when the war broke out, no food, no clothing, etc. In fact my country was but ill prepared for the struggle.

"I found at one time about forty wounded in my ward, where I was the only nurse available. In my ward I had these forty patients and only thirty beds. The beds were very hard, they were made of boards and for mattresses, straw was used. It was all they had to lay on for some six or eight weeks and for physicians and nurses such conditions were terrible.

Very often in the hospital in my ward the operations were performed without any anesthetics at all. The poor soldiers had to bear the pain of operations without being given any relief whatever. The terrible moment for nurses was when these men were brought in from the front. A bowl of water with a little grease, made to serve as a soap, and black bread of old times was the only food at hand.

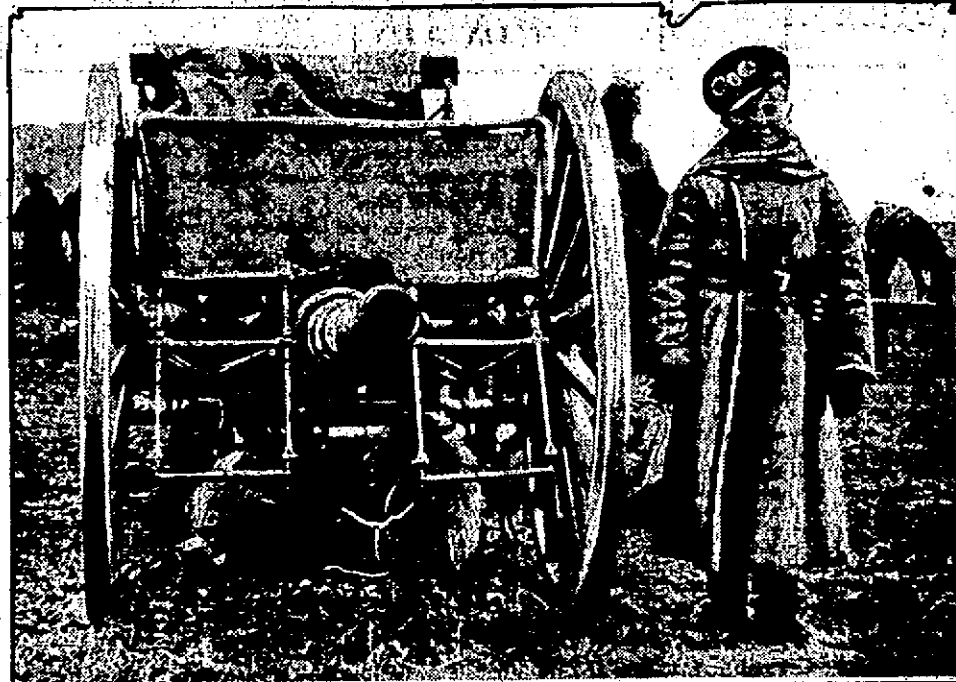

"Also in my ward there were only two pairs of slippers. The sheets could not be changed for weeks. There were no bandages to any extent, and many times bandages were taken from those who were slightly wounded, washed and used on those more seriously wounded. When these wounds were crowded in the hospital, sometimes we could not leave the surgeon visit them all, he was so busy.

"We can estimate that in Serbia 250,000 persons died of that dreadful disease typhus. A most terrible case happened in Nish. A woman had learned that her son had fell a victim to the disease. She went right to the hospital and they told her that he had died, and had been taken to the chapel. When she heard of that, she went to the chapel. There she found him in a coffin, an orderly sitting beside it. The orderly said: 'Dear lady, your son is not yet dead; the doctor has taken him out of the hospital to make room for more hopeful cases; he was despaired of. Hearing that, she took him and nursed him and he recovered.

"Even whole families have been wiped out by the dreadful typhus. They were dying everywhere. Could you have passed through the city you could have seen black flags on houses. Sometimes it signified that the entire family had succumbed to the disease, but the excellent work of Dr. Strong, the American, has wiped out the disease.

"But after this, another question appears. We have in Serbia about 20,000 child orphans. Many of them live in the fields and woods, without shelter and without anybody to care for them; they subsist the best way they can; there is no way for them to get food and clothing. Very often poor people had distributed what food they had among the children. They solicit help at funerals, but in Serbia it is the custom of the people to never deny aid on such occasions. Many times in the house of the dead, children were fed.

THIS YOUTHFUL RUSSIAN ARTILLERYMAN EXPECTS MUTTON FOR HIS DINNER

RUSSIAN BOY SOLDIER. (NOTE SHEEP UNDER GUN.)

(Not yet does the lamb lie down with the lion, and it is to be feared that the fate of the sheep in the picture, under the gun, surrounded by hungry Russian soldiers, was not a happy one. However, his peaceful look indicated that he did not know his impending end. The Russian soldier in the picture is a very young lad, seemingly about sixteen, one of very many youthful soldiers in the czar's armies opposing the Germans and Austrians. Note the sword in scabbard at his side. Such weapons are carried by all Russian artillerymen. The motor gunnies help as a protection against gas attacks.)

"My dear friends, just think what is happening to these little orphans now in the mountains and fields, prey for wolves, foxes and bears. I know that very often when a farmer would leave a cow or a hog out of shelter, he awakened in the morning to find nothing but bones. Just think how everything has been taken away from the Serbians. The people absolutely starved when the Serbians were attacked by Austrians. The attack was resisted twice, but the third time defense was a failure.

"Among those who remained in Serbia until the last moment were my father and mother. They endured severe trials in leaving. During their journey, they came to a hut, warmed by a fire and here they remained for the night. They were obliged to ford streams and sometimes they were open to attack by Albanians. Every day they walked for ten or eleven hours and finally reached Montenegro.

"In this part of the work, the small mites are welcomed as well as the larger sums. A dollar in my country is five francs. A dollar will feed a refugee for a month and $10 will save the life of a refugee. He can be taken to Italy where he can earn a living. I want to thank Americans for their generosity towards the cause. We have raised over $200,000 which I think is most wonderful. The generous spirit is most remarkable in view of the fact that Americans haven't known Serbians and they are to be thanked for sending funds for friends they never knew before. I want to thank you here in Portsmouth for being so good to me, and I assure you, if when the war is ended, any of you come to Europe, come to Serbia and Belgrade and I will show you the places of interest.

The bravery of the Serbian people, their self sacrifice and endurance in the face of hardships which have come upon them, formed the background of her story of cruel torture, oppression and deprivation, in which she pictured relief came after ease of hospital and relief work almost beyond belief.

In addition to her own experiences, she was enabled to quote from letters from her parents and friends who have been wandering from one town to another, without proper shelter or food, in an effort to leave their bleeding land behind them and seek safety in some other country. At Sarajevo, 10,000 refugees in pitiful want, waiting, merely for means, to be transported to Italy. No ship came for them and they are without food or the bare necessities of life.

Her story was not wholly one of atrocities, though she did make mention that fully 6,000 Serbians had lost their lives by being burned to death or otherwise tortured during the first invasion.

The total amount received to date for the relief of the Serbian sufferers is $229.78, $188.17 collected at the meeting Sunday and $41.61 added to this sum, obtained from the tea held on Saturday afternoon at the Rockingham hotel.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Portsmouth War Relief Committee, which already has done a vast amount of work for the stricken people of Europe. Prior to the opening of the meeting the Naval band, under the direction of Band Master De Nuzzi, U. S. N., rendered a selection in front of the theatre. At three o'clock the band took possession of the stage and presented a fine concert which was fully appreciated. It is doubtful if the Naval band was ever heard to better advantage than at this meeting and at the close, Miss Losanitch expressed her personal thanks and appreciation to the musicians who had given their services to help make the meeting a success.

The program:
Grand March et Cortège "La Reine de Sabe" Guyard Band.
Overture "Caza Lada" Rossini Band.
Fantasia "Home Sweet Home the World Over" Lampas Band.
Selection "Carmen" Bizet Band.
Fox Trot from Operetta "Chin Chin" Caryl Band.
Introduction, by Mayor Samuel T. Ladd Address Miss Losanitch Caprice, "Dance of the Serpents" Boccalari Band.
Selection "La Bohème" Puclini Band.
Appeal for War Sufferers Mayor Ladd
Gems of Stephen Foster Toham Band.
Grand Operatic Rag Fisher Band.
Illustrated address Miss Losanitch American Patrol Mencham Band.

The Portsmouth War Relief Committee passed a resolution of thanks and expressed their appreciation to Mr. F. W. Hartford for the loaning of the Colonial Theatre for the meeting; to the members of the Naval band and their director; to the attaches of the theatre for their services in connection with the meeting; the several theatres for displaying slides, advertising the meeting during the week and to the Portsmouth newspapers for their publicity. This resolution was signed by John K. Bates, chairman of the committee.

Miss Losanitch also offered her thanks to all who had in any way assisted in making the meeting a success and her appreciation of her treatment while in Portsmouth, was earnest and convincing. She said that in no other city or town has she been

FUTURE OF GIANT SEAPLANES

London, Feb. 12.—Aerial duels between land-going aeroplanes have been common enough for the past year or more, and seaplanes have taken an active part in the war on both sides.

British aeroplanes have dropped bombs on German positions in Belgium and on towns along the north-west coast of Germany. Austrian seaplanes have dropped bombs on Montenegrin and Italian towns, and German seaplanes have on one or two occasions dropped bombs on English soil. German submarines and German seaplanes have attempted to destroy British ships.

On all of these occasions, the seaplanes have been fired at by guns from the ground or from ships, and on occasions they have been attacked by land-going aeroplanes carrying machine guns, but so far as the history of the war is known it has only once happened that the seaplanes have met and fought. This was on November 28 of last year, when a British seaplane shot down an enemy seaplane.

This is somewhat curious, because armed seaplanes were tried experimentally before the war, and one of the features of the naval review in July, 1914, which was followed by the mobilization of the British fleet, was a large seaplane built by Short Brothers, which was fitted with a 1.12 pound gun, the biggest gun which had ever been used in an aeroplane. It seems more than probable, however, that very large armed seaplanes are likely to become a regular feature of very important fleet. One beauty of the seaplane is that it is not tied down as to size by the necessity for designing so that it can land in a comparatively small field, and it has been plainly stated in various American papers that the Curtis firm at Hammondsport, N. Y., are already making numerous seaplanes of the flying-boat type very much larger than those which were designed in 1914 with the intention of trying to cross the Atlantic.

While European manufacturers are more or less limited to the construction of aeroplanes of standard sizes and types by the necessity of turning out the greatest possible number of aeroplanes in the shortest possible time, American manufacturers who are making money by supplying aircraft to various belligerent nations can well afford to spend some of their profits in experimenting with and developing enormous seaplanes. If these were built in Europe they would oblige their manufacturers to hold up the delivery of perhaps a couple of dozen smaller machines, owing to the time and space they would take up in building. It would not be surprising therefore to see the first ocean-going seaplane turned out in America. Before the war, seaplanes were built in England which were able to fold their wings so as to come into harbor without occupying too much room, and so long ago as the London Aero show of March, 1914, a model machine was shown by Squadron Commander Pemberton Billing, which demonstrated that a seaplane was able to cast loose its wings so that the boat section could come alongside a pier to pick up its passengers, and take up its wings again when it wanted to fly.

This ability to shed its wings altogether was also intended to assist the machine in case of its being brought down in a heavy sea. Many seaplanes have been battered to pieces when helpless on the water owing to the great surface afforded to the waves of their wings and if it were possible to cast off the wings and leave the seaplane body to ride out the storm, or to get home slowly under its own power, it would undoubtedly be an advantage.

It seems quite probable that when it

COSTUME PARTY FOR DANCING PUPILS

Brilliant Affair Saturday Evening Enjoyed By Little Folks of Miss Moses' Classes

One of the most successful masquerade parties held in this city for children, took place Saturday evening in Freeman's annex when Miss George Moses held a complimentary reception and dance for the members of the children's classes. The costumes were varied and elaborate and the little ones enjoyed every moment of the party before and after the signal for unmasking.

The evening opened with a reception to the little ones, Miss Moses being assisted in receiving by Miss Betsy Vail in Japanese costume, and during the evening the Misses Marion, Gilkey and Ruth Weaver, rendered her other valuable assistance.

Miss Moses, costumed as a Turkish dancing girl, presented a Turkish solo dance, her efforts being heartily applauded by her pupils and their parents, who attended as guests. Following the reception, the promenade was held, led by the "bride" and the "groom," impersonated by Alfred Randall as the bride and George Bailey as the groom. The march was a pretty sight with the many colored costumes, the little dancers entering into the spirit of the occasion, and the fact that they were masked led to much merriment.

Following the march, general dancing was the order until the unmasking at intermission when refreshments of ice cream and cake were served the guests by Miss Moses.

After intermission, dancing was again in order, many novelty dances taught in the classes, alternating with the usual dancing. Among those present in costume, and the characters represented were:

Louise Sheppard, The Goddess.
Anna Connors, Italian peasant.
Yvonne Haynes, Bohemian girl.
Dorothy Rand, Quakeress.
Virginia Aichele, Irish peasant girl.
Ruth Junkins, a knight.
Minnie Gray, Spanish girl.

comes to building ocean-going aeroplanes they will be made to cruise on their own bottoms at the ordinary cruising speed of a fleet, with their wings folded and will only extend their wings when they are really needed for aerial reconnaissance or for fighting purposes.

When seaplanes as big as the destroyers of today are developed they will be quite serious weapons, even against battleships, for, although they are not likely to carry guns capable of damaging a ship, they could certainly carry very heavy bombs or torpedoes, and the guns they will be able to carry will be quite sufficient to destroy the aeroplanes of the enemy. It may fairly be assumed that with the development of the giant seaplane, any fleet action between navies at war will be preceded by big aircraft fights.

BEST DRESSED PAUPER DEAD

Brazil, Ind., Feb. 12.—An Higgensville dead and the poor fellow has lost its quaint character. As earlier in life, and plenty of money and he cultivated the knack of being a "good dresser." Even after coming to the poor farm he always kept his clothes neatly pressed and free from dirt and dust. He had charge of the barn at the farm and so neat was he that, after the other men had finished sweeping and cleaning the place, he would dust off the rafters with an old rag.

ENCOURAGING REFORESTATION.

One of the most sensible and practical movements toward restoring value to farm lands is that which is designed to encourage and promote reforestation. Some states have already taken steps to this end, and New York now enters the field on a basis and with a proposition which owners of waste lands cannot afford to ignore. The State Conservation Commission offers to furnish at cost forest tree seedlings and transplants at prices which will enable land owners to reforest waste lands at a cost of not more than $10 an acre including labor. When the possibilities and ultimate profits of reforestation are considered this offer is one that should attract attention and lead to co-operation that would in the years to come mean much to land owners and to the state.

In the earlier days it was the policy of farmers to clear up their lands as fast as possible, and this was all right at that time. The lands were rich and every acre cleared added materially to the production of farms. For this reason the cutting and slashing went on until many farms were stripped to an extent that left them without adequate wood lots.

In the years that followed the land was cultivated, the crops were sold and in too many cases too little was returned to the soil to offset the drafts being made upon it. In time this policy produced the inevitable result. The fertility of the soil was exhausted, and it has since been necessary to fertilize liberally or allow the land to go to waste.

There are thousands of acres in every eastern state today that are not producing enough to pay for fencing. In their present condition these lands are practically valueless, yet they afford opportunity for the most profitable investment. If covered with trees and let alone for a proper length of time they will again come into large value, as no one can fail to understand who reflects upon the high price of lumber and the fact that the price increases with the passing of the years and the increasing demand for the products of the forest.

Reforestation offers a profitable opening to owners of waste lands everywhere. By this means lands utterly worthless in their present condition can be restored to large value. The fact that a crop of trees cannot be grown as quickly as a crop of corn or potatoes is no reason why the planting of trees should not be begun. It is well that this work should be encouraged by the states, and of such an offer as that made by New York there should be prompt and liberal acceptance.

The government has settled its case against the American Sugar Refining Company, which has been evading duty payments for a little more than $50,000, and the company was not obliged to admit that any fraud was intended. This is another illustration of the fact that not all of the wrong doing in this country is chargeable to the poor and ignorant.

Two men who were convicted of vagrancy in a Connecticut court the other day took an appeal and put up cash bail to the amount of $200 in each case. It is now believed they are guilty of crimes even more serious than imposing upon the public as vagrants, and their records will be carefully looked up.

A lone bandit took possession of a sleeping car on a western road a few nights ago, robbed the passengers and got away. Will the time come when the conductors and porters of sleeping and parlor cars will have to be replaced with armed guards?

It is a prosperous time for the arms and munition makers. The Winchester Repeating Arms Company paid 25 percent dividends last year and its stock is selling at nearly $3,000 a share. And other manufacturers of similar products are not out in the cold.

Potatoes have reached exceptional prices in some parts of the country, being quoted at from 45 to 50 cents a peck in Boston. A short crop is the only explanation offered, yet the reports indicate that there are plenty of "spuds" for export.

England is talking of establishing a ministry of aviation. The German air raiders have evidently convinced the British that something must be done to lessen the danger from the daring German airmen.

There is nothing like war to create and increase values. Old false teeth are now in demand, these being wanted for the platinum that is in them, this metal being worth more than gold.

In its battle for preparedness the administration has already lost one Garrison.

UNIVERSITY STUDENT CHARGED WITH CRIME

High School Girl Found Dead in Chicago from Poison

(Special to The Herald)

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Armed with photographs of William H. Orpet, University of Wisconsin student, charged with the murder of Marion Lambert, the high school girl found dead in the woods near the suburbs of Lake Forest, detectives today started to visit every drug store in an effort to prove that he purchased the poison that caused the girl's death. It was definitely determined that the poison that caused the death was prussic acid, dissolved. The other developments in the case today were Mrs. Lambert, the dead girl's mother, pleaded with the state attorney to get Orpet free and not prosecute him.

STATE TO ANSWER VERMONT

Atty. Gen. Tuttle Leaves for Washington in Interstate Suit

Concord, Feb. 13.—Attorney General James P. Tuttle and Asst. Attorney General Joseph S. Matthews left tonight for Washington where they will lit in the next week or ten days working on the preparation of the answer of New Hampshire to the Vermont action to determine the boundary line between the two states.

The answer is returnable next month in the United States supreme court, in which the suit is brought.

The question at issue has vexed both states for many years, more particularly in recent years, when New Hampshire towns have levied taxes on property on the Vermont side of the river, which, however is on land claimed by New Hampshire. The New Hampshire claim is based on the changed course of the river, and it will be asserted in the hearings on the suit that the property taxed by New Hampshire is on land that formerly was a part of the river bed.

It is New Hampshire's contention that the boundary line is the high water mark on the west of the river, as it ran when the states were laid out. This, if sustained would give the New Hampshire towns the right to tax the property situated by Vermont. Vermont's claim is that all of the land on the west side of the river, as it runs now, is within the state of Vermont.

In view of the magnitude of the question, it would not be surprising if it was necessary to ask for more time in framing the answer.

PEOPLES' OPINION

Believes It Should be Paid

Mr. Editor: At our last election, the men that were elected for our mayor and councilmen said that they were going to run the city on a "practical business principle." Let us see, this year there is a debt of $175,000 that has had interest paid on it for the past twenty years. According to the laws of New Hampshire there should have been a per cent per year put in the sinking fund to meet this debt. I understand there has been no money put in the sinking fund for some seven years, therefore there is now a shortage of about $10,000 to meet this debt. Some of our councilmen are talking of taking money from funds that are on hand to meet other debts when they become due. In other words, robbing Peter to pay Paul. Some councilmen want to pay the debt out of the tax levy, which is the only honest way; some of even talking of issuing bonds or notes, which if they read the Statutes of New Hampshire, they are not allowed to do. Where is all this talk of practical business that we heard so much about?

What business man that has paid interest on a debt for twenty years, and can pay it, would still think of paying more interest?

I for one, think we are paying interest money enough—as out of every $22.50 the city receives in taxes there is about $5.00 to $6.00 paid out for interest and that is about all that we can stand.

Trusting our councilmen will consider the right and wrong of this matter and pay the debt this year.

TURKEY HAS 500 AVIATORS

One of the most serious mistakes of the Allies was the contempt with which they treated the German aviators during the first stages of the war. From the fact that French flyers had created a number of sport records the

CURRENT OPINION

Warfare the Worst of Evils That Can Befall Society

I know there are cases in which war is morally unavoidable and that the preparation for war in time of peace may be regarded as axiomatic, but I know also that at its best war is the worst of evils that can befall society. America alone finds time for science and scientific congresses. Behold an eloquent appeal in favor of peace.

The man of science are by war taken away from their studies and made to slaughter their fellow men instead of helping to enlighten them. And when the war shall have ended it will leave us a generation of weak and prematurely aged and practically useless men.

While the eastern hemisphere throbs with the excitement of human passion the Christ child raises his hands in blessings over the nations of America. —By the Right Rev. Charles Warren Currier, Former Bishop of Matanzas, Cuba.

French and English press drew the conclusion that England was hopelessly outclassed in the air. The people of the Allied and the neutral countries were made to believe that the air was so completely dominated by the French, as the seas by the Allies.

This dream was of short duration however. By Sept. 1911, the London Times had to concede that the successes of the Germans on the western front were largely due to the excellent scouting service of their aviators.

When Turkey entered the war, the Constantinople papers expressed fear that the supremacy of the French and English aviators would bring disaster to the Turkish armies. The Turks at that time only possessed four flyers, who were trained in Germany and used antiquated machines of French origin.

The creation of a respectable Turkish air fleet seemed almost impossible. The arsenals began at once the construction of aeroplanes but many parts of them could not be produced in Turkey and had to be brought from Germany and Austria-Hungary by that territory. About a dozen machines were built in Germany and delivered in Constantinople, but before they could be used, pilots had to be trained for them.

Early in January of last year, Capt. Serno, a German expert, arrived with a number of German flyers and mechanics to take charge of the organization of the Turkish aviation corps. A large aerophone factory was erected at San Stefano under the direction of Capt. Serno and within three weeks this energetic young officer had created an efficient air fleet out of practically nothing.

In May the Turkish army had over one hundred flying machines and their numbers have been growing steadily ever since. The Turkish officers, selected as aviators, surprised their German teachers and they went out their work enthusiastically and with the greatest daring. All of them mastered the secrets of aviation in a very short time.

At that the Turkish aviators were only used to reconnoiter the positions of the Allies on the peninsula of Gallipoli and in the Dardanelles and almost daily threw bombs on the ships of the Allies. One small English cruiser was sunk by them and 115 men of the crew were killed.

Since last Fall the Turkish aviators have also been very busy in the Caucasus, in Macedonia and along the Suez canal. In December they brought down five British machines north of Egypt. Amara. Four aeroplanes that had been captured, were repaired by the Turkish aviators and are now used against the enemy.

Although hardly a year old, the Turkish aviation corps is already formidable and highly efficient. The number of flyers has been increased to more than 600.

NO STEP TAKEN ON RE-ORGANIZATION

President Kimball of Concord No Rush on the Matter. and Montreal R. R. Says

Concord, Feb. 13.—No steps have been taken to call the stockholders of the Concord and Montreal railroad together to consider the proposed reorganization plan of the Boston and Maine system, President B. A. Kimball said today. As the matter stands it is one between Massachusetts railroad corporations, Mr. Kimball said, and there is no necessity for immediate action on the part of the New Hampshire railroads.

John J. W. Hemlock of the Pearson trustees, who are heavy stockholders of the Concord and Montreal stock, said the trustees have not yet decided to consider the proposal. And he did not care to say anything for publication until he conferred with Charles E. Carr of Andover and Alvin B. Cross of this city, the other trustees. There is likely to be a conference of the trustees within a few days, and a statement may be then forthcoming. On the whole, the proposal of the Boston and Maine seems to have met with general approval, former Senator William E. Chandler's statement in criticism being the only one from any person of prominence.

MARK SHINBORN HAS MADE HIS LAST ESCAPE

Death Takes Noted Burglar The Only Man to Break Out of Concord State Prison.

Mark Shinborn who for many years was one of the most notorious bank robbers in the country, died in Boston on Monday. After his release from prison in 1905, he announced that he had given up his life of crime and he spent his last days in the old John Howard home for reformed prisoners. He was about 80 years old.

Shinborn, whose real name is said to have been "Maximilian" Seifert, came to this country from Austria about 1861. In a bank robbery at Moscow, Pa., he obtained $12,000. Later he secured large amounts in bank robberies in New Hampshire. On the night after he had been sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in New Hampshire, he escaped.

After more robberies he was again captured and taken to the state prison at Concord, N. H., from which he escaped a few months later. He was the only prisoner who ever broke out of the Concord prison.

More crimes led to his last arrest, and he served a long term at Concord.

BRINGS SUIT FOR $10,000

Armstrong Alleges Alienation of His Wife's Affections.

Benjamin Armstrong of York wants $10,000 for the alienation of his wife's affections and he institutes suit for this amount against Samuel L. Carter, formerly of Elliot, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Carter of that town. At present his residence is unknown.

Properly owned by Carter in Maine has been attached and while no service has been made on the defendant as yet, notice of the pending suit is given to him by publishing the same so that he may appear at the May term of the supreme court to be held at Alfred and answer to the suit if he shall have cause.

In a plea of the case, the plaintiff says the defendant, contriving, and wrongfully intending to injure him and to deprive him of the comfort, society, aid and assistance of Anne M. Armstrong, the wife of the plaintiff, and to alienate and destroy her affections for him, on October 21, 1910, and divers times, the plaintiff further charges the defendant with being guilty of illegal acts and the plaintiff alleges that as a result of the promises of the defendant he claims he has lost the comfort, society, aid and assistance of his wife, which during all the time he ought and ought to have had, all to the damage, the plaintiff says, in the sum of $10,000.

Mr. Armstrong further alleges that the defendant not only alienated and destroyed the affections of his wife for him, but unlawfully and unjustly gained the affections of Mrs. Armstrong and that he pursued, procured, and enticed his wife to leave the house of the plaintiff and she has continued to absent herself from the plaintiff's house from October 24, 1910 up to the time of filing the suit.

The date of the writ is April 12, 1915 and was returned at the 1915 September term of the supreme court. Arthur E. Sewell is attorney for Armstrong.

CHARITY BALL TO BE A BIG EVENT

Elks Plan It With Their Usual Thoroughness

The big society event of this week will be the Charity Ball under the auspices of the Portsmouth Lodge of Elks at Freeman's hall on Thursday evening. That it is going to be a success, nobody who knows anything about the Portsmouth Lodge of Elks for a minute doubts.

This organization which has a reputation for doing things right, have become interested in the formation of an organized charities, through their own experience in doing charity work outside of their own members. They have seen the need of some central clearing house where the work of the different organizations may in a way be freed from all duplication and impositions on the part of some of the people who are always looking for something to do.

The Elks will donate all they receive from the Charity Ball to the new organization and expect that it will be the means of not only relieving some suffering on the part of the poor, but the reconstruction of some of the paupers that they may take care of themselves and be self-supporting.

Governor Spaulding and his staff with Mayor Ladd and the members of the council have accepted invitations to be present. This is the first time that Governor Spaulding has attended this winter and he is sure to get a warm welcome here.

The members of the Elks are hustling with the tickets and expect to make a new record in sales.

Electricity Vs. Cost of Lighting

When you talk about the cost of lighting your home, do you consider the entire cost?

FIRST—The actual cost of consumption, kerosene oil, gas or electricity, whichever it may be.

SECOND—The cost of maintenance, which includes all other expense connected with your lighting.

THIRD—The time and trouble to keep the lighting system in good order and repair damage done by same.

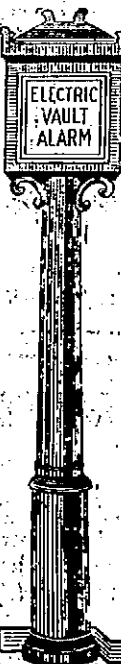

With electric lighting you have the first cost which compares well with any other form of lighting. The second cost is less than one-tenth of any other form of lighting and you practically eliminate the third cost. Furthermore, you secure the convenience of many electric appliances.

We will be pleased to estimate the cost of wiring your home.

PATIENTS IN DANGER FROM FIRE SUNDAY

HOSPITAL OF DR. COWLES ON MIDDLE STREET, SCENE OF FIRE ON SUNDAY AFTERNOON. SLIGHT BLAZE IN DEER STREET BOARDING HOUSE.

Two alarms, sounded Sunday afternoon kept the fire department active for more than an hour, although neither of the fires were very serious. Shortly after 1 o'clock, an alarm from box 9 called the men and apparatus to a slight blaze at the boarding house conducted by Michael McNeill on Deer street. It was a needless alarm and the department returned shortly after the chemical crew putting the fire out with a few minutes' work. The damage was slight.

Just before 2 o'clock, an alarm from box 32 brought the department to the scene of a fire in the sanatorium of Dr. Edward S. Cowles on Middle street. The fire was confined to the basement although it broke through into the first floor, burning a large hole in the dining room floor.

Some of the patients in the house were taken to the other end of the house, ready for instant removal if it was found necessary. The efficient work of the firemen succeeded in preventing the fire from spreading through the building and it was finally checked after burning a part of the floor.

The damages are estimated at about $500, due mostly to smoke and water. Dr. Cowles was away at the time of the fire and although the cause is not definitely known, it is thought to have started either from a defect in a flue or from hot ashes having been placed in a wooden container.

WITH THE SPORTS

In the world of pugilism, the all-absorbing question today is:

What chance has Jack Dillon, the plucky pugilist, against Jess Willard in their round bout which is to be fought in New York in April?

Willard is 6 feet and 6 inches tall and has a reach of 84 inches. Dillon is 5 feet, 7 inches tall and weighs from 165 to 170 pounds and has a reach of 66 inches.

Because of Willard's tremendous advantage in height and reach, the vast majority of the fans are of the opinion that Dillon has only one chance in a thousand against the champion. Some do not concede him even that single chance and are raising a yell that Willard's managers, filled in getting Fulton for a punching bag, have picked another lemon.

Well, if the Willard handlers figure that Dillon will prove an easy mark for Mr. Willard, they are due for the saddest surprise of their lives. Dillon, in our opinion is a super-human battler; the greatest fighting machine for size and inches the world ever has known. And in this opinion we are backed up by practically every fight fan in the country who has seen Dillon in action.

Dillon in his eight years as a fighter never has met a man who could knock him down. He has mingled in 179 bouts and no man has ever hit him hard enough to topple him. When you are absorbing this statement, add to the fact that Dillon has met such men as Gunboat Smith, Al Norton, Charlie Weinart, Jim Savage, Jim Flynn, Tom Cowler, Tom McMahon, Porky Flynn, Jack Lester, and a flock of other heavyweights, men who have outweighed him from 160 to 165 pounds. When Willard faces Dillon—the Lion—against the giant—it will seem to many to be a situation that demands prompt action by the Pugilistic Society. It will seem like premeditated murder. But before the fourth round of the battle comes there may be some persons who have a different viewpoint.

When one studies the ring records of Dillon against those of Willard, small as he is, has beaten men who beat Willard! An astonishing fact—but true! Gunboat Smith beat Willard on points in twenty rounds on the Pacific coast in 1913 and beat Tom McMahon in Youngstown, Ohio, in 1914. Dillon beat both these men and did it decisively.

If Dillon proved himself better than Willard against two formidable foes why then shouldn't Dillon be conceded at least a small sized chance against the champion?

Willard hasn't fought for nearly a year; Dillon has been fighting on an average of nearly twice a month. Dillon is in perfect condition right now; he doesn't need to train. But Willard, who is reported as weighing in the vicinity of nearly 300, must stand at least 40 pounds.

Because Willard is a head taller than Dillon and because he has nearly 20 inches advantage in reach, it would seem that Dillon's chances of winning the champion's dome are about nil. But Dillon can hammer the body and he will. Willard's defense as we have seen it in the two most important battles of his career, consists almost wholly of covering his face. He has no consistent defense for his stomach.

"Willard doesn't need to protect his stomach," assert his backers. "It is impregnable. No one can hurt him hitting him there."

Maybe that was so a year ago. But it isn't now. Some of the muscles that guarded Willard's stomach during the days of strenuous training have relaxed. The stomach may not prove a stone wall against Dillon.

Dillon will probably have to aim most of his wallop at Willard's midship region. If they land, Willard is going to feel them. There is no man who can deliver a more terrific blow to the body than can Dillon. He sent a right crashing to the stomach of Mr. Charles Weinart in the second round of the Philadelphia bout. Weinart weighed in the neighborhood of 210 pounds and that one wallop lifted him off his feet, turned him around and then sent him to the ropes. The fight was over. For nearly six months afterward Weinart complained of pains in the region where that blow landed.

Dillon swung that same right to the jaw of Tom Cowler, the Australian heavyweight in the second round of their bout in Brooklyn last week. Cowler went down as though a half-ton Zeppelin bomb had hit him on the dome. It required nearly five minutes for Cowler's seconds to revive him. Al Norton's jaw was nearly broken as the result of being in the way of Dillon's right hand swing in the fourth round of their Memphis bout last December. Scores of others have felt that wallop and crumpled.

Dillon can hit—and with the power of a sledge hammer. And he can take as much punishment as any man in the ring today. He is faster by far than Willard, and undoubtedly will be able to move out of the way of the crushers of Willard. But can he escape them all?

Just now, we wonder what will happen if Willard's famous right swing, propelled by every muscle in his huge body and backed by his tremendous weight, collides with the heretofore unhurt jaw of Jack Dillon?

AM I SERVING GOD OR THE ADVERSARY?

No Room For Neutrality Here. Must Serve One or Other.

An Important Thought For All to Consider—Service of Self is Service of Satan—He Seeks to Subjugate the Human Will To None. But God Should the Will Be Yielded—Yielding the Will to Him Insures Our Highest Welfare and Happiness.

PASTOR RUSSELL

Charleston, S. C., Feb. 13.—Pastor Russell delivered a very timely address here today, taking for his text, "Disserve us as whom ye obey." It means, "If these words were rightly appreciated, the speaker declared, doubtless they would greatly impress the whole civilized world today. The Lord instructs us that there are only two masters—God and the Adversary. We must serve one or the other. There is no middle ground. As we look over the world, we see hundreds of millions in deadly strife. Whom are they serving? Whom do they profess to serve?"

To us the Scriptures clearly teach that there are no Christian nations, but that God is preparing a new nation which will come into power when Messiah sets up His Kingdom. We accept the Bible declaration that these present kingdoms are of this world and under the Prince of this world—Satan. The Apostle tells us that the fruits of the Spirit of Christ are meekness, gentleness, patience, brotherly kindness, love; and that the fruits of the Satan's spirit are anger, malice, strife, bitterness, hatred, envy, murder. As we judge according to this Scriptural standard, we can draw but one conclusion.

Doubtless there are saints of God in those nations, but the nations themselves are surely far from Christian. Professing to serve Christ, by their works they deny Him. They give money and good missionaries to teach the heathen nations how to be Christians, how to do right. Evidently some grievous mistake has been made. They have been serving purely selfish interests. All along the object and aim of the nations has been their own advancement.

We are not qualified to judge the heart. But it seems as though there has been great hypocrisy—a pretense, to be what one is not. We may better judge nations than individuals, however. Let wherever we go throughout Christendom, we see churches on every side. One would think, "How happy these people must be! How they must love the Lord and their fellowmen!" But alas! We find many things contrary to the Spirit of Christ.

What is it to be a Christian. We ask ourselves, "To whom are the majority rendering service?" Nearly everybody seems to be bowing down to Self, seeking his own pleasure and profit. There are noble exceptions, but service of Self seems to be the rule. Of all the various forms of idolatry the meanest and worst is Self-worship, the doing of everything merely for Self. A counterfeit always implies the genuine. The genuine Christian, the loyal Christian, serves the Lord only. Whoever would enter the School of Christ must give himself wholly to the Lord and then follow the Master's steps. Repudiating one's own will is the hardest thing that one can do; and it would be a most dangerous thing to give ourselves to any one except the Lord.

Satan and his evil associates, the demons, seek to gain control of the human will, that they may enslave their victims and make slaves of them. The will should be subjected to no one but God, not even to husband or wife or the dearest friend. While we often may properly submit our course to another, yet the will should never be submitted, except to the Lord. But given over to Him, it is made strong for the right; and our highest and best interests are conserved.

To those who desire to follow in the path of righteousness the Lord says, "Give Me thine heart." This means, "Submit your will to Me. He will have no half-hearted service. We must give all or nothing. We are to have no contrary will of our own. Our Lord would have no other will than the Father's will; and He set us an example, that we should follow His steps. To do so is to be a Christian."

Whose Servant Am I?

The Pastor holds that much is taught and practiced under the name of Christianity which is far from Christian. Many join the church for purely selfish reasons. People seem ready to profess or join almost anything whereby they can prosper in business or in society. While not judging people's hearts, nor wishing to condemn any individual, he feels sure that the vast majority know not the first principles of Christianity.

God desires the hearts, the affections, the will of His people. These He graciously condescends to accept along with our imperfect talents and to use them in His service, to the blessing of others. At best we are still unprofitable servants. But He lovingly accepts our feeble efforts to glorify His name, and grants us His blessing.

The refusal of so many other thousands to pay more notwithstanding their abundant ability to do so—is likewise founded upon reason.

COLDEST OF THE SEASON

Thermometer Touches 40 Degrees Below Zero at Fryeburg, Me.

The predicted cold wave arrived here on schedule time and on Monday morning our citizens were confronted with the coldest morning of the season, the thermometer registering from 5 to 10 degrees below zero in various parts of the city. At the car barn, it was 5 below, at Sky Farm 5 below and at the Badger farm, 10 below. While it was stinging cold in this city it was nothing compared with the reports brought by trainmen from the Conway branch of the Boston and Maine railroad. The coldest place reported was Fryeburg, Me., where the thermometer is said to have gone down to 40 below. Other reports were as follows: North Conway, 26; Madison 30; Mount Whittier, 23; Conway, 25; Wolfeboro, 22; Mountain View, 27; Sanbornville, 29; Milton, 26.

"A NIGHT IN THE NORTH END"

Dress Rehearsal of the Coming Production Makes a Hit

The residents of the North End on Saturday evening were given the unusual privilege of witnessing the first act of the forthcoming production of "A Night in the North End." Every thing was at its height at the Polish wedding and the orchestra from Ipswich has just concluded playing "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" when the two Johns, the leading comedians of the North End athletic club, were announced.

The appearance of these two noted and versatile artists was hailed with delight and the fact that the curfew bell had been rung was forgotten and nothing but merriment prevailed until the advent of the Sabbath day put an end to the festivities. Those who witnessed the pantomime sketch by the senior John say that James Moffitt had nothing on him in the pulpy days of "Humpty Dumpty" and the pathetic rendition by his partner of the ballad, "You will never make the water until the well runs dry," brought tears even to the eyes of the orchestra, who accompanied him. The rehearsal was certainly some success and would make a hit on any stage, so say those who witnessed Saturday evening's performance.

Owing to bronchial troubles and the climatic conditions, the Haystacks quartet was unable to be present and this fact was greatly regretted by all.

CALLS POLICE WAGON THEN HE SKIPS

Adam Brown, a Polish resident of the North End, who takes the name of Brown for short, would have got a joyride in the city hurry-up on Sunday if the police could have put the arm of the law on him.

It appears that Adam was one of the guests at a wedding and when the guests carried out the usual custom of making a money donation to the bride and groom, Adam reneged. The consequences were that Adam was seized by the strong arm squad and forcibly ejected from the scene of festivities. Angered by this quick exodus he sent in a call for the patrol and gave the police the idea that a small riot was on. After that, he skipped. The wagon was on the scene in three minutes, but it only took half of that time for Adam to beat it. The police, after a hunt for him found it useless and so pushed back to the station. Adam is likely to get a free ride at most any time.

That he should have aroused from the hay when he first heard it and not hung to the sheets until it was jarred off the shelf on his knee.

That one brother proposed to the other to go behind the barn and smoke a cigarette.

That they did not care to take the chance from the fact that their father had been sneaking out around the barn to pull off a smoke ever since he swore off at New Years.

That a nurse, answering an advertisement, appeared at a family home to inquire about the position.

That the woman of the house said: "My husband is very particular when I engage a nurse. He asked the following questions: 'Do you sew and darn? Can you do washing and ironing? Are you prepared to stay up late nights? Are you faithful and devoted?'"

The nurse finally broke in with, "Excuse me, but do you want me to look after the children or your husband?"

COLONIAL THEATRE

Home of Refined Vaudeville.
Safety and Quality First.

MONDAY

For the first half of the week we've had another novelty act which is different from the usual run. This is the Mysterious Talking Teakettle. The name sounds like a fairy tale doesn't it? But there's lots of comedy and fun in it, and it is sure to please all, especially the kiddies. It has always been the policy of this theatre to secure vaudeville that the children will like. The Langweid Sisters, two clever eccentric comedienne, it will be remembered, appeared here in 1911 at the P. A. C. Minstrel Show. As they are old favorites they are sure of a warm welcome. This act includes talking, singing, dancing and a pantomime. Cycling Crane presents a pleasing comedy novelty.

We have a special picture program for St. Valentine's Day, which includes the three part Knickerbocker Star feature drama, "The Heart Breakers," featuring pretty little Jackie Saunders. "The Desert Calls Its Own," is an absorbing Selig drama, and "The Getaway," is a delightful Vim comedy.

That he told the Judge he revolved the deets in his map by a fall from the wagon.

That the Judge, thinking the fall was from the cold water vehicle, said: "What, so early in the year?"

That the prisoner then told the court that he had suffered two falls.

That the first one was from the water wagon some time ago, but the second flop was from a milk wagon.

That the first fall was the cause of the second one. If he has no more falls in thirty days, and pays a fine he will be allowed to go back on the milk route.
